

International Executive MBA Program in English

In today's rapidly – changing economic, political and business environment, career success depends on the ability to identify and understand what's coming and then acquire relevant knowledge and appropriate capabilities to face the future. The balance of regional economics, markets and business opportunities is undergoing a metamorphosis. While the USA's global hegemony is in a state of decline and Europe tries to cope with its own crises and doubts, East Asia is steadily growing in importance.

For Israeli companies, this provides new business opportunities and unexpected threats, plus a greater variety of competitors and potential partners in the global marketplace. To help businesspeople plan and prepare for the emerging managerial challenges, we offer a unique international executive MBA program in English. The goal of the program is to provide students the essential knowledge and skills that will help them advance in their careers and become better managers in the increasingly dynamic, complex and competitive environment. The program has a global vision with a regional emphasis on doing business in East Asia (China, India and Japan).
