CALL TO APPLICATION FOR THE 2013 SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM AT TRENT UNIVERSITY

The Daughters For Life Foundation Scholarship Program in partnership with Trent University is offering six full scholarship including travel, tuition, accommodation and food to young women in the Middle East in order to pursue postgraduate study at Trent University starting in September 2013.

This scholarship program is developed to help build peace through the facilitation of higher education opportunities for women in the Middle East region and is funded by the partnership of the Daughters for Life Foundation and the donations of the Fern A. Rahmel Estate through the generous efforts of Trent University.

The Program welcomes applications from promising female students from the Middle East. Our selection process has proven to be highly competitive. In order to match the program standards, eligible applicants should submit The Daughters for Life Foundation application form, complete Trent University's online application for admission and submit all necessary paperwork to the University. These forms include official transcripts, two letters of reference, a plan of study and a writing sample.

The deadline for application is Feb. 1, 2013. Late applications will not be considered. Applications will be considered based on financial need, academic achievement, satisfactory references, community involvement as well as demonstrated compassion and creativity. Applications will be assessed through both the submission of written materials and interview. Renewal of the scholarship will be based on the successful academic progression of the scholarship recipient in each year of her program at Trent University.
